Grant lost in red tape

Anson, Hindon and Minden Township has paid out over $9,400 to cover the cost of money borrowed for the construction of the curling club-recreational complex. While the municipality has had to borrow $215,635 for interim payments to the contractors, officials at the Ministry of Culture and Recreation are still processing a grant of $206,000 which was approved September 1980 for the project.

The situation has left at least one member of the council upset and dismayed. Councillor Ed. Pergolas described the interest the township is paying as "money poured down the drain."

The council was told May 13 that the Wintario application is still in "a large pile of similar applications," and that officials would get around to processing it when it finally surfaces.

When the project was first proposed last year, the township agreed to underwrite the cost of borrowing pending the payment of the Wintario grant. In that time interest rates have skyrocketed and the funds from Wintario are held up in red tape.

To date the township has paid out $215,635 on behalf of the curling club building fund, drawing the money on a short term, demand loan, basis. The interest rates on demand loans fluctuate with economic conditions and during the first quarter of this year the rate has been moving steadily upward. The rate on demand loans to the municipality is now 19.5%.

The Times attempted to contact the co-ordinator for this Wintario grant, Brenda Couch, but she is currently on vacation. When we called the Culture and Recreation office on Tuesday, the secretary indicated that there was no one in who would be knowledgeable about the grant.

Robert Morgan is the centre of attention as he balances on a unicycle during a performance of the Friendship Fable. The play was presented Thursday at Archie Stouffer Elementary School. He and Maureen Rooney delighted the young audience with their tale about friendship. For more details see page 5.

Assailant unknown

Police are still uncertain as to the identity of a man who assaulted a Scarborough man in the early morning hours on Sunday. The incident took place on Highway 35 south of Carnarvon.

Shannon Mercer, 23, of Scarborough was sitting in a car at the side of the highway at two o'clock Sunday morning with Lisa Mass, 20, also of Scarborough. A black pick-up truck with four people inside stopped opposite the parked car and two men from the truck approached the car. The two attempted to persuade the girl to accompany them and when Mercer objected, he was knocked to the ground and kicked in the head.

The assailants then fled in the truck.

Mercer was taken to the Red Cross Hospital in Minden where a number of stitches were used to close a cut over his left eye. He was also treated for other facial injuries. Police have been unable to obtain the identity of the assailants.

Constable Al Barnes of Minden OPP investigated the incident.

Car rally could become annual feature in Minden

Minden could soon become the permanent 'home' of another annual sporting event.

The 1981 edition of the Black Bear automobile performance rally will start and end in this community, and according to the organizer, there is a good chance the club would want to make this their base for the event.

David Paisley, a spokesman for the Maple Leaf Rally Club of Toronto, the rally sponsors, noted in an interview Saturday that this is the third year the rally has been held. "The first year we started in Orillia and the second in Bracebridge." He noted that the facilities in Bracebridge which they rented last year were already booked so the club decided to try this community. Fortunately the arena and Community Centre were free on the last Saturday of the month, and so the club decided to move the start and finish of the rally to Minden.

The move is more than simply finding available facilities. A major portion of the rally takes place north of Minden and so by locating their home base here, the organizers are a great deal closer to the action.

Paisley described what takes place during a performance rally. "It is a race in the true sense of the word," he commented, "but rather than competing against each other directly, the drivers attempt to cover the route in the shortest period of time, a race against the clock." He said most of the rally is run over private roads. Here drivers and co-drivers challenge their skill and their vehicle's durability against the rough and twisting roads.

"We will be using mainly MNR access roads north of the Vankoughnet Road," Paisley commented. "These roads are posted prior to the rally, closed and patrolled when the rally is taking place. We take every precaution to ensure the safety of the public."

One of the features of this year's Black Bear Rally is that a section of the route will be over a public road. The organizers have obtained permission to use the Queen's Line, from where it meets the Bobcaygeon Road to where it turns left at the bottom of the steep hill. This road will be closed as the 30 to 40 expected cars cover the distance.

Each car leaves the starting point at one minute intervals and is clocked for the time it takes to cover the route. In this instance the Queen's Line section covers just over a kilometer and will mean the road is closed to the public for about an hour and a half.

"One of the reasons we sought to use this portion of public road," Paisley commented, "was to give spectators an opportunity to view the action. Most of the route is on MNR access routes that are hard to get to and there is little parking." He noted that spectators will be allowed onto the route prior to the race, but will not be allowed to leave until the last car has completed the course. "Once they are in they are in to stay," he commented.

After the drivers have completed a race section, they travel on regular roads, within regulation speed limits, to the next section. "Anyone receiving a speeding ticket is automatically disqualified from the rally," Paisley commented.

Three classes

There are three classes of cars in the rally. The open class allows the driver to make any modifications to the vehicle which he wants but the car must be accepted as one which can be legally driven on public roadways. The production 'A' class are for cars up to 1600 cubic inch engines which can be modified except for the engine and drive train. The production 'B' class is for cars of 1600 cc and over. Paisley said over half of the vehicles in this rally are expected to be in the open class.

Paisley pointed out that all cars must have certain safety equipment installed such as roll cages, four point safety belts, and fire extinguishers.

This race is the third event in an interprovincial championship. Drivers compete in this event to qualify for the Canadian championship. Cars are expected from many points in Ontario and Quebec. Teams sponsored by major car manufacturers will also be in attendance.

The rally is scheduled for Saturday May 30 with registration and vehicle inspection at the arena in the morning. Officials hope to have the start of the rally in downtown Minden, to give spectators an opportunity to examine the cars. The start has been slated for 1 p.m. with all cars expected back at the arena by 8 p.m.

No volunteers for Army blitz

While in other parts of the county the Salvation Army's Red Shield appeal is well underway, the Minden Village area may not be reached because of a lack of volunteers.

According to Lieutenant Ron Mailman of the Salvation Army in Haliburton, this is the only area where he has been unable to recruit volunteers to carry out the annual blitz. "We are looking for people who would be willing to canvass their own street or neighbourhood," Mailman commented. He indicated that it is not a big job, but one, that if left incomplete, leaves a major hole in the Army's campaign in the county.

The campaign has a target of $5100 and close to $2000 has already been raised. The deadline for the annual blitz is May 31.

"I contacted close to a dozen people in Minden and all were unable to help," Mailman commented. "Minden Village has always provided excellent support for our campaigns, both in volunteers and financially," the Army officer noted.

Volunteers who agree to campaign on behalf of the Salvation Army will be sent a canvassing kit and can set their own schedule for the door-to-door effort.

Anyone interested in collecting funds for Salvation Army should contact Lieutenant Mailman by calling 457-2424.

Club gets break on water rates

The Minden curling club has obtained a sharp drop in its water charges, at least for this year. A charge of $75 to cover the period between February and October 1 was agreed to at the May 13 meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council.

The club had been sent a bill for $581 for the six month period this year when the club wasn't even in operation.

The reduction followed a presentation by a representative of the club, Jack Jackson. "I would like to strenuously object to these charges," he declared, "particularly since they cover a season in which the club was not in operation."

Councillor Ed. Pergolas, who has been at the forefront of striking new rates for the water system, agreed to dropping the charges for this year because of the problems experienced by the club, but indicated that he wanted a rate set by the start of the new season.

Jackson told the meeting

FROM THE CHAMBER

By Bob Stinson

The Victoria Day weekend traditionally signals the beginning of the summer season, but this year, with spring appearing so early, it almost seems a little late for that. However, with a couple of frosty nights we are reminded that even yet those summer water lines are in some jeopardy.

Accommodation was pretty well strained to the limits, we understand, and local facilities were operating at or close to capacity. All indications point to a very good season providing the weatherman co-operates as anticipated.

Student venture capital

The Ontario Youth Secretariat operate a venture capital program each year that assists students to operate a summer business and this year our Chamber is participating. The program provides interest free loans of up to $1,000 to provide working capital so that a student may set up and operate a business of any kind during the summer months. The loan must be repaid by October of the same year out of the anticipated profits of the venture.

The Chamber's role in this procedure is to screen the applicants and advise them on their proposals. Application forms are available at either the Chamber or the Manpower offices and we would be glad to discuss ideas with any student considering an application.

Commission workshop a big success

When the Economic Development Commission agreed to sponsor a one evening workshop entitled "How to Start a Small Business" they had little idea on just how much interest it would spark.

Seventy-six people filled the meeting room last week to hear Bob Pollock of the Ministry of Industry & Tourism provide some of the answers they were looking for and his presentation was received most enthusiastically.

One member who attended noted that he really was already aware of much of what was said, but you need to be reminded every so often of some of these things. Those not already in business found the workshop invaluable in helping them consider their future plans.

The Chamber has been somewhat frustrated in the past when it sponsored seminars and workshops to aid members and they suffered from lack of participation so it was very encouraging to see the response to this event. We are prepared and anxious to arrange similar seminars for the business community in the future wherever there appears to be enough interest. If you have a particular topic you would like to see us tackle, let us know and we shall see what can be done.

More "what's new"

In the last column we had a host of new or changed business operations in the County to tell you about and there are still many more to relate to you. We hope you will welcome all these folks into their new endeavours and remember that supporting them is supporting the Haliburton economy.

In Minden you may notice that the familiar "Lauric Inn" sign has now been replaced with a bright new one reading "Minden House". Dick and Laura Kirkwood are now enjoying a well earned retirement and the establishment is now operated by Stan and Marion Hill who have moved here from Brampton.

Also from Brampton, and moving into the resort business are Ray and Gail Larkin who now own Glenroy Lodge. Fred and Rose Britain have retained their home adjacent to the property and just now are simply planning a nice long holiday.

South of Minden we are pleased to see that the Wagon Wheel Motel and Restaurant is open and operating once again. Albert and Dora Foster and their daughter and son-in-law Glenn and Margo Davis have purchased it and are quickly getting everything rolling again.

In Minden we are also pleased to welcome Barry Stewart as a new member. Barry operates Minden Electric and after many years of cottaging here has now setup permanent shop and housekeeping.

Another pair of summer residents, Earl and Jean Brickell, who have been holidaying on Kushog Lake for countless summers have purchased the former Waterlot Marina and Snackbar at Ox Narrows and renamed it Rockside Resort. They hail from Scarborough and Earl's father has operated Brickell's Cottages on the same lake for many years.

Joe Hughes became well known as a top notch butcher during the years he toiled behind the meat counter at Welch's Market east of Carnarvon. After both Joe and the market went their separate ways they have now been re-united with Joe as the new owner and the name will now be changed to "Rancher's Market".

Over in Haliburton Village residents and visitors have been watching for over a year as a new restaurant slowly and painstakingly took shape on the main street. Quietly the

Petition blocks race track plans for park

A proposal that a race track be established at the Minden Fair Grounds has been rejected by township council. The rejection came at May 13 meeting and followed receipt of a petition bearing 100 signatures and a letter from a resident in the area.

The proposal, put forward by Tom Prentice at the April 22 meeting of the council, sought to have a track installed at the Fairgrounds. He suggested the facility could be used in the summer by the fair officials, possibly incorporating horse racing into the annual program. It was also proposed that the track could be used in the winter by vehicles racing on ice, including cars, motorcycles and go-carts.

The petition which was sent to council said those signing had no objection to a track in the Minden area, "providing it was not within the village limits."

It listed a large number of recreational activities which are already available to residents of the area in both winter and summer.

A proposal was made that a plywood fence would help to screen out the noise, however the petition rejected this. "Even a 10 foot high wooden wall would fail to confine the noise within the proposed track area, and the fence would not add to the beauty of the landscape," the petition read.

The petition also stated, "It is said that the backers of the racetrack are the same persons who dug the ditches and left them and their mounds of dirt in the swampy part of Minden Park. If the track is non-productive, would the fence be left to the destruction of time?"

Councillor Lyle McKnight pointed out that efforts had been made to clean up the dirt piles in the swampy portion of the park behind the new library, but wet conditions last summer made it virtually impossible for the heavy machinery to work in the area.

The petitioners also voiced their concern over a decline in property values if the track was installed.

The letter, received from George Alsop, voiced the same objections.

The objectors quickly gained the support of the councillors who without lengthy discussion rejected the racetrack proposal.

Option offered

Once the idea had been rejected by the council, Reeve Lloyd Walker, who had been absent when the proposal was first made, offered to lease ten acres of land he owns to the race track promoters. He said he was willing to lease the property to the group for the cost of the taxes, if they were willing to develop the idea. He said that if the project was a success after the five year period, he would consider selling the land to the proponents of the track.

The land offered by the reeve is located on Hillside Road near the Austrian Village Restaurant.

Saturday, May 16 at 10 o'clock in the morning. Constable Bob Wood was on patrol in the Minden area when he noticed a car parked in the driveway of an unoccupied home. He stopped, and noticing a window was opened, he entered the building to discover the couple in an upstairs room.

The charges were laid against Richard Glen Harvey, 30, and his wife Shirley Cheryl Harvey, 36.

Chamber of Commerce

new establishment opened its doors to the public for the first time this week-end under the name of "Old Country House". Come and see for yourself.

Out on Head Lake there was also some new signs of activity as little paddle boats bobbed about in the water. Rosynda Adventures, a project of Mike Easton and Vince Conaghan, is now renting the paddle boats at the government dock each week-end and will do so daily throughout the summer.

The Pop Shoppe in Haliburton has now reopened and the new proprietor is George Clarkson. George is calling it the "Pop and Top Shoppe" since he will also be carrying a line of custom printed "Tee" shirts along with records, tapes, cigarettes and chips.

Just north of the village it is great to see renewed activity at the former site of Hyland Lumber. Bill Emmerson and Rick Baine have taken over the property and are setting up the operations of Pelaw Logging. They are planning some new facilities on the site and anticipate creating new employment in the area.

Last, but certainly not least, we are pleased to welcome James Chalk to the County. James is qualified in service to refrigeration both residential and commercial and also is equipped to install and service air conditioning and heat pumps. He will be operating from his home at Ox Narrows.

We wish all of these new entrepreneurs much success in the business community of the Highlands.

Flaws exist, but building is sound: engineer's report

An engineering report on the potential long term durability of Minden's new library and cultural centre has indicated the building is a sound structure but a number of circumstances have created problems. The report was prepared for the Anson, Hindon and Minden Township Council by Morrison, Hershfield, Burgess and Huggins Limited, consulting engineers and read at the May 13 meeting of the council.

The report reviews a number of aspects of the building which could be problem areas, but concludes by stating, "...it is our opinion that there is nothing inherent within this structural system itself which could be expected to abnormally restrict the service life of the Minden Library and Cultural Centre." The structure was built for the municipality by 1867 Confederation Log Homes. Despite this conclusion, the report does point out a number of flaws in the entire construction process which will require attention to ensure the life of the building. The following observations were made by the consultants:

- The lip of the cement slab on which the structure sits extends two feet beyond the building's outer walls. This lip has acted as a catchment for melting snow, driving rain and water dripping from the roof. The report calls this situation unacceptable and predicts if it is allowed to continue, the bottom log will be subject to decay.

The report recommends a proper caulking dam around the base of the building and notes this barrier will require constant attention as it will be subject to deterioration from the elements and human activity. Modification of the protruding cement apron so that it slopes away from the building and the installation of eavestrough around the perimeter of the structure to channel water away from the building is also recommended.

- Noting that they had inadequate drawings to analyze the cement slab, the engineers speculated that if the foundation was improperly constructed or the base not properly prepared, the slab could be subject to differential settlement. If that happened the slab would probably crack, particularly around the structure's base, distortions would occur making windows and doors difficult to open, the apron at the front of the building could be raised causing pressure on the beams being supported by the posts there, condensation could occur on the building's floor resulting in mildew and a cold floor could result if improper insulation was installed in the slab.

- The report noted that the front portico was being supported by jack posts rather than the four inch pipe columns specified by the builder. It recommended that these posts be replaced with properly secured posts capable of carrying the anticipated load and able to withstand the initial shrinkage of the building's walls.

- It is noted that surface checking is occurring on the interior surface of the logs. These lateral cracks in the wood are normal and a result of the logs drying out.

- The report suggested the council contact the builder to determine if the roof trusses were designed to meet the specifications of the building code for public buildings.

- It was also pointed out that a log building with a wall thickness of five and a half inches will have an R insulation value of close to 7. This compares to the specifications of the originally planned masonry structure which was to have an R12 insulation value.

- The report also states that there should be little problem as a result of moisture caused decay in the walls. It is noted that the structure is electrically heated, not artificially humidified and does not contain any appliance likely to give off large amounts of water vapour. It notes that for the wood to become so moist as to cause decay to set in the building would have to be sealed much better than the present structure.

The councillors accepted the engineer's report after it was read in its entirety to the meeting.

Payment made

In a related matter, the council approved an interim payment of $15,000 to 1867 Confederation Log Homes. The municipality still holds $4300 owing to the builder.

Society will landscape new library property

The Minden and District Horticultural Society has agreed to take on the job of landscaping the Minden Library and Cultural Centre and has proposed to create a nature park at the rear of the new structure.

The plans were discussed and approved at the May 13 meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden Township Council.

Amos Brubacher appeared before the meeting with the proposals. He told the councillors the organization was willing to beautify the lot, but he wanted the township's approval in writing before proceeding. He said there are grants available for projects like this and the group wanted to take advantage of the additional funding.

Brubacher also noted that this was the seventy-fifth anniversary of Horticultural Societies in Ontario, and individual groups were being encouraged to take on special projects to mark the occasion. He told the meeting the Minden group would be willing to create a nature park in the treed area behind the culture centre. He said paths would be constructed through the area and various species of wild plants featured. He suggested the park could be an attraction for the community.

The members of council concurred with the society's plans, however it was noted that the Minden Kinsmen Club also have plans to construct an exercise trail in the same area. Brubacher was told that he would have to coordinate his projects with those of the Kinsmen Club and the Minden Recreation Department.

Brubacher stated the nature park would have its entrance located in the vicinity of the cultural centre, while the participark planned by the Kinsmen was to be located closer to the arena.

In other matters, the society spokesman asked if he could erect a solar greenhouse on municipal property. The building would be 20 feet by 24 feet and would be used to start the hanging flower baskets which decorate the core area of the community. Brubacher and road superintendent Earl Kent will determine if there is space at the municipal yard to accommodate the structure.

that the club felt a fair charge for the building would be seven to ten times what the average residence is billed. He said the building will get little use in the summer months and the charge should be reduced in the off-season.

Asked whether the club wanted to have a meter installed to measure consumption, Jackson said it would be advantageous to give both the club and the council an indication of the amount being consumed. However he indicated that they would not agree to having a meter installed to measure the cost to the club until the council struck the rate to be charged.

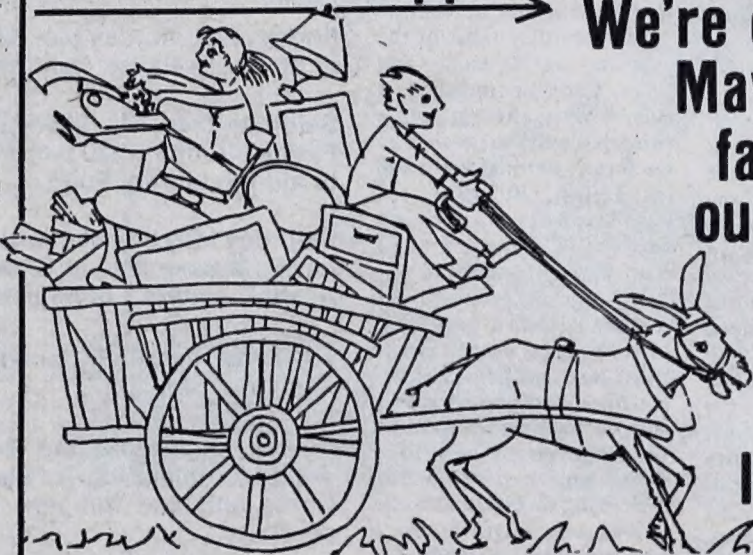

Jackson said the council should install a number of meters in homes and businesses throughout the community to give them some indication of the amount actually being consumed. He said that rates gathered from two other clubs in the area indicate they are being charged less than the Minden club.

Councillor Lyle McKnight pointed out that the council is having trouble meeting the cost of the water system and was just "feeling its way" in assigning the new rates.

Jackson said he felt it was unfair to expect the club to be paying a "lion's share" to help the municipality meet the deficit.

The curling club has also been asked to investigate rates being paid in other centres and suggest to the council how they wish to pay for the water consumed, either by meter charge or flat rate.

Car rally could become annual feature in Minden

Minden could soon become the permanent 'home' of another annual sporting event.

The 1981 edition of the Black Bear automobile performance rally will start and end in this community, and according to the organizer, there is a good chance the club would want to make this their base for the event.

David Paisley, a spokesman for the Maple Leaf Rally Club of Toronto, the rally sponsors, noted in an interview Saturday that this is the third year the rally has been held. "The first year we started in Orillia and the second in Bracebridge." He noted that the facilities in Bracebridge which they rented last year were already booked so the club decided to try this community. Fortunately the arena and Community Centre were free on the last Saturday of the month, and so the club decided to move the start and finish of the rally to Minden.

The move is more than simply finding available facilities. A major portion of the rally takes place north of Minden and so by locating their home base here, the organizers are a great deal closer to the action.

Paisley described what takes place during a performance rally. "It is a race in the true sense of the word," he commented, "but rather than competing against each other directly, the drivers attempt to cover the route in the shortest period of time, a race against the clock." He said most of the rally is run over private roads. Here drivers and co-drivers challenge their skill and their vehicle's durability against the rough and twisting roads.

"We will be using mainly MNR access roads north of the Vankoughnet Road," Paisley commented. "These roads are posted prior to the rally, closed and patrolled when the rally is taking place. We take every precaution to ensure the safety of the public."

One of the features of this year's Black Bear Rally is that a section of the route will be over a public road. The organizers have obtained permission to use the Queen's Line, from where it meets the Bobcaygeon Road to where it turns left at the bottom of the steep hill. This road will be closed as the 30 to 40 expected cars cover the distance.

Each car leaves the starting point at one minute intervals and is clocked for the time it takes to cover the route. In this instance the Queen's Line section covers just over a kilometer and will mean the road is closed to the public for about an hour and a half.

"One of the reasons we sought to use this portion of public road," Paisley commented, "was to give spectators an opportunity to view the action. Most of the route is on MNR access routes that are hard to get to and there is little parking." He noted that spectators will be allowed onto the route prior to the race, but will not be allowed to leave until the last car has completed the course. "Once they are in they are in to stay," he commented.

After the drivers have completed a race section, they travel on regular roads, within regulation speed limits, to the next section. "Anyone receiving a speeding ticket is automatically disqualified from the rally," Paisley commented.

Three classes

There are three classes of cars in the rally. The open class allows the driver to make any modifications to the vehicle which he wants but the car must be accepted as one which can be legally driven on public roadways. The production 'A' class are for cars up to 1600 cubic inch engines which can be modified except for the engine and drive train. The production 'B' class is for cars of 1600 cc and over. Paisley said over half of the vehicles in this rally are expected to be in the open class.

Paisley pointed out that all cars must have certain safety equipment installed such as roll cages, four point safety belts, and fire extinguishers.

This race is the third event in an interprovincial championship. Drivers compete in this event to qualify for the Canadian championship. Cars are expected from many points in Ontario and Quebec. Teams sponsored by major car manufacturers will also be in attendance.

The rally is scheduled for Saturday May 30 with registration and vehicle inspection at the arena in the morning. Officials hope to have the start of the rally in downtown Minden, to give spectators an opportunity to examine the cars. The start has been slated for 1 p.m. with all cars expected back at the arena by 8 p.m.

No volunteers for Army blitz

While in other parts of the county the Salvation Army's Red Shield appeal is well underway, the Minden Village area may not be reached because of a lack of volunteers.

According to Lieutenant Ron Mailman of the Salvation Army in Haliburton, this is the only area where he has been unable to recruit volunteers to carry out the annual blitz. "We are looking for people who would be willing to canvas their own street or neighbourhood," Mailman commented. He indicated that it is not a big job, but one, that if left incomplete, leaves a major hole in the Army's campaign in the county.

The campaign has a target of $5100 and close to $2000 has already been raised. The deadline for the annual blitz is May 31. "I contacted close to a dozen people in Minden and all were unable to help," Mailman commented. "Minden Village has always provided excellent support for our campaigns, both in volunteers and financially," the Army officer noted.

Volunteers who agree to campaign on behalf of the Salvation Army will be sent a canvassing kit and can set their own schedule for the door-to-door effort.

Anyone interested in collecting funds for Salvation Army should contact Lieutenant Mailman by calling 457-2424.

Club gets break on water rates

The Minden curling club has obtained a sharp drop in its water charges, at least for this year. A charge of $75 to cover the period between February and October 1 was agreed to at the May 13 meeting of Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council.

The club had been sent a bill for $581 for the six month period this year when the club wasn't even in operation.

The reduction followed a presentation by a representative of the club, Jack Jackson. "I would like to strenuously object to these charges," he declared, "particularly since they cover a season in which the club was not in operation."

Councillor Ed. Pergolas, who has been at the forefront of striking new rates for the water system, agreed to dropping the charges for this year because of the problems experienced by the club, but indicated that he wanted a rate set by the start of the new season.

Jackson told the meeting (more on page 3)

The costly grant

Anson, Hindon and Minden taxpayers have lost over $9,400 simply because the bureaucratic wheels which process Wintario applications do not turn fast enough.

$9,400. That is the amount of interest paid by the municipality to cover the cost of money borrowed to pay the contractors of the Minden curling club and recreational complex. To this point the municipality has borrowed $215,635 to help finance the project.

When the curling club-recreation complex was first proposed, the township council balked at any direct financial commitment. The tough stand was used as a lever to encourage the club to raise as much of the cost themselves before turning to the municipality. At the same time, council agreed to cover the cost of borrowing to pay the contractors until the Wintario money came through.

Everyone is still waiting for Wintario to come across and the township is still paying the interest, this week at 19.5%.

We attempted to contact Wintario to get an explanation, if there is one, for the delay. However, a staff member told us the individual responsible for processing the grant was on vacation and would not be back until June 1.

The situation points up one of the serious shortcomings of the Wintario grant system, especially where large amounts of money for capital projects are concerned. The provincial lottery organization should be prepared to provide interim payments once a project receives approval. For most organizers, such approval is considered as good as money in the bank.

Knowing that the Minden curling club application is currently lost in a mountain of similar applications is scant consolation to the taxpayers of this municipality who have just lost $9400 in interest to keep the project alive.

Wintario's grant program has been and continues to be of benefit to many organizations and municipalities in the province. It may seem rude or ungrateful to be critical of the organization which is responsible for spreading so much "free money" around Ontario. However, as this municipality has learned, the Wintario largesse is certainly not free.

The provincial authorities should ensure that such a waste of money does not happen again.

Who's helping the farmers?

by John Eakins, M.P.P.

Since my return to Queen's Park, my colleagues and I have been receiving pleas from many area farmers for some form of action that would assist them during these difficult times.

On the first full day of the Legislature, my colleague and Agricultural Critic, Jack Riddell, M.P.P., asked that the regular business of the House be set aside to discuss the problems facing farmers, as this was of urgent public importance.

The refusal of the Minister of Agriculture and Food to participate in an emergency debate in the financial crisis facing Ontario's farming community, clearly shows that the Ontario Government has a total lack of concern regarding this most serious problem. To simply state that high interest rates are a federal responsibility ignores the fact that Ontario is one of the few provinces in the country not to have instituted an extensive and well used set of low interest programs for its farmers.

The facts of farming life are extremely chilling. In 1980, farm bankruptcies increased 91% over the previous year and, for the first three months of this year, bankruptcies increased 77% over the same period last year.

Furthermore, the Ontario Federation of Agriculture estimates that for every farm bankruptcy recorded in Ontario, there are at least 10 other farmers who decide to get off the land while they still have some equity left in the business.

As farmers are leaving the land in frustration or are forced off by bankruptcy, all too often that land is being sold to foreign investors who have no intention within the foreseeable future of coming to this country to farm the land, or to developers who will seek other ways than farming of making a profit off the land. This can only have a negative effect on the provincial economy, considering that the farm community not only provides us with food for domestic consumption, but also provides employment for thousands of people.

I firmly believe that this Government must introduce an immediate emergency interest program to prevent further farm bankruptcies. The farming industry in Ontario needs assistance now and if the Minister of Agriculture is not prepared to accept the responsibility for initiating such a program, then he should move over and make room for some-one else.

by Ron Reid of the Federation of Ontario Naturalists

In 1977, biologist Gerry McKeating began a project designed to fly in the face of "progress" - he started his plan to re-introduce the peregrine falcon to Ontario.

For eons, the peregrine had dominated Ontario's skies, swooping down at speeds of more than 300 km/hr on the smaller birds that were its prey. But in the years following World War II, the poisonous pesticides that mounted through the food chain took their toll on the mighty peregrine, especially on the eastern race. By 1963, the last peregrine nested in Algonquin, and then they were gone. Only a few in the remote reaches of the arctic held on.

With increased control of persistent pesticides, the environment appeared safe for peregrines once more. But could they survive? McKeating sought the answer, by releasing four young falcons, raised in a special captive breeding program in Alberta, within the Park in 1977. Since then, over 50 birds have been part of an expanded release program. But have the falcons returned? In a cooperative venture between the Ministry of Natural Resources, the Federation of Ontario Naturalists, and the Elsa Wild Animal Appeal this spring, 30 volunteers went searching for an answer. Seven former nesting sites were chosen. On the first weekend in May, each was "staked out" by a team of four, waiting and watching.

Unfortunately most of the watching was in vain. Only Mike Cadman recorded a positive sighting of a peregrine, and the status of all the former nesting sites is still in doubt. But for the participants, a spring weekend in Algonquin was a rewarding experience in any case. Canada geese by the thousands passed over-head, broad-winged hawks swung their lazy circles skywards, and the first spring warblers chirped in the bushes. Black bears emerging hungry from their winter sleep provided an interesting diversion as well.

Was our single falcon a returning bird? Perhaps, but perhaps only a repeated blitz in 1982 will provide the answers. In the meanwhile, another 16 young peregrines will be released this summer, and the great Algonquin experiment will continue.

Surprise awaits busy policeman

Sunday was just one of those days when Constable Al Barnes had to wonder if it was all worth it. He worked a 12 hour shift on the first long weekend of the summer, beginning at 8 p.m. Saturday evening.

In the course of his night patrol he was called to the Hawk River north of Hall's Lake to move some campers who had illegally set up their tents on township property, issued several warnings to drivers whose trailers were not showing lights, charged an underage drinker and continued on regular patrol.

Later that night he was called to Big Hawk Lake to help locate four people who had not returned after setting out in a motor boat. With a borrowed boat, Constable Barnes located the four. Their motor had malfunctioned.

Then, it was back to Lutterworth Township to investigate a reported break and enter and finally back to the Minden hospital for to interview a man involved in an assault.

Not an extremely busy weekend for the first long holiday of the summer, but certainly one that kept this particular officer on the go for his 12 hour shift.

One can imagine his chagrin when he returned to the detachment office Sunday morning to discover that his personal vehicle had been stolen from the parking lot.

The matter is still under investigation.

Off-oil slow in coming by Bill Scott, M.P.

The federal government has reversed itself again with regard to the administration of the on-again, off-again Energy Conversion Grant Program.

When I first reported on this program on December 3, 1980, it was to be administered jointly by the provinces and the federal government, and application forms would be distributed by provincial public utilities. Start-up date for mailing out grant cheques was to be April 1, 1981.

On April 4, 1981, I was told that public utilities were no longer involved in distributing application forms, and that they would be made available directly by the federal government. A new start-up date for mailing out cheques was set for "about the first week in May".

I am now told that the provincial public utilities are "back in the picture", and that they will be distributing the forms. A new date for mailing out cheques is said to be "from about the middle of May".

Meanwhile, the Canadian Federation of Independent Petroleum Dealers has lashed out against the "off-oil" program, calling it inflationary and fiscally irresponsible, and also discriminatory.

Federation Executive Director James Conrad said that the operation of the program will result in discrimination against smaller dealers and favour the larger oil companies and contractors.

Conrad said that he objects to the policy whereby all installations of alternate fuel heating systems must be inspected by a public utility company, saying that it places his members in the position of "being inspected by their competitors."

He also said that the government "did not even consult with the Canadian Federation of Independent Petroleum Dealers before working out the details of the off-oil program." He said that that is proof that the interests of the smaller, independent dealers were not even considered.

Conrad said that public utilities are allowed to recommend contractors to people who plan to convert, and that they could favour some of the smaller contractors and exclude others.

He said that the independent dealers will be losing customers for their product, and that they should at least be getting a large share of the business of installing the new systems.

However, a federal energy spokesman said that inspection of home heating systems is a responsibility of public utilities, under provincial laws, and the spokesman added that utility companies are instructed to recommend at least three financially sound home heating contractors and allow the consumer to decide who will do the work.

Anyone competent to install a heating system, such as a wood stove, would not be required to hire a contractor. However, the completed system must be inspected, and meet all provincial inspection laws before a grant application can be approved.

The federal government is expected to place advertisements in newspapers, and on radio and television in the near future advising the public of the off-oil program, and instructing people as to where they can get answers to any questions on conversions.

Children delighted with A Friendship Fable

Junior students, teachers and a number of parents were treated to a delightful performance of the Friendship Fable Thursday morning at Archie Stouffer Elementary School.

The play presented, in fantasy form, a story which demonstrated the importance of tolerance, sharing and friendship. Two players, Maureen Rooney and Robert Morgan captivated their audience with their antics and engaging presentation. Morgan wrote the play.

The two actors are part of the Theatre Direct Canada company and their presentation of the play is sponsored by the Ontario Human Rights Commission. The Home and School association assisted with the cost of bringing the play to Archie Stouffer.

The play tells the story of a budding friendship between a bumpkin and a speechless young girl. Their friendship grows and then flounders as the clown treats the girl unkindly.

When he finally rejects her completely, the girl is taken away by a witch. It is then that he realizes how important her friendship was to him and how mean he has been. To bring her back he meets three challenges which the witch presents to him, using the lessons he had learned earlier

In the end, he defeats the evil power of the witch and the two are re-united.

The play had all the elements to attract and keep the attention of the young audience. The clown rides a unicycle, juggles bean bags, while a haggard and scarred witch peers from the magic tree and a ferocious dragon presents the clown's final challenge. But through all this activity, the message of friendship still shone through.

The young students were entranced by the action and in a number of instances they became active participants in the performance as they helped solve problems or guide the clown to the correct answer.

It was a delightful play, well presented by a pair of enthusiastic and polished performers.

Tallpines camp to be repeated

Due to the success of last year's program, the Haliburton chapter of the Association for Children with Learning Disabilities (ACLD), will once again be holding its summer camp program on the shores of Twelve Mile Lake.

The program, held at Camp Tallpines and run in co-operation with the Ministry of Education, endeavours to keep children with learning problems in touch with language and math skills which could be lost during the summer vacation. A number of local students will be hired to work at the camp under the direction of project leader Marilyn Kinsman and John Fitzgerald, who acts as liaison officer with the school board.

Included in the program is reading, writing, listening and speaking, as well as games and activities which enhance large muscle skills. Swimming is also an important part of the camp program.

One of the interesting and best-liked programs of last year will be repeated, as different groups of children will help plan and prepare the lunch meal each day.

The program begins July 6 and concludes on August 13.

The organizers are anticipating that at least 40 students will attend and they plan to divide these children into two groups, juniors and seniors, each attending two days a week. The daily program runs from 10 in the morning to 3 p.m. The cost for the entire session is $20.

More information on the program can be obtained by contacting the co-ordinator, Marilyn Kinsman at 489-2583.

Green Thumb corner

Most homes have a location that doesn't get too much sun during the summer season. These areas are often left to grass because of the difficulty in finding suitable plants to grow there. John Hughes of the Soils and Crops Branch of the Ontario Ministry of Agriculture and Food points out there is one plant at least which is ideally suited for shade.

In the second feature, Russ Gomme of the Agriculture and Horticultural Societies Branch of the ministry offers some suggestions on growing flowers for the pleasant smell they provide as well as for their visual beauty.

Shady flowers

Most homeowners have at least one area in their garden that requires shade-loving plants, and the impatiens is ideal.

When we talk about spring plants, we think immediately of sunny annuals, such as petunias and marigolds. In actual fact, impatiens have been gaining in overall sales at a much faster rate than either of these two.

The reasons are many. Today's varieties will truly bloom in full shade all summer long. Strong basal branching makes for a bushy, compact plant, that performs well in a variety of soil conditions. Many types of impatiens are self pinching and self cleaning of old flowers. In addition, most of our built-up residential areas have a high degree of well-established landscape that results in shaded garden area.

Plant breeders have made a significant contribution to the impatiens family and have been chiefly responsible for their rise in importance. The main group is the Elfin series that are a hybrid series developed several years ago. They are available in a wide color range (white, red, rose, pink, and salmon).

A plant breeder from Costa Rica, Claude Hope, one of the main developers of the Elfin series, has now developed the "Super Elfin". I saw these breeding trails about eight years ago, and now they are available for the buying public. Generally, they are superior to the other Elfin because of larger flowers, more flowers and continuous flowering throughout the growing season. Overall height is 20 to 25 centimetres (8 to 10 inches) and they tend to stay dwarf because of their basal branching habit.

To give you an idea of the increasing importance of impatiens, a new variety called "Blitz" is the first impatiens to win an All-American Selection. It will be available this spring. Its orange-scarlet, large blooms contrast effectively with bronzy-green foliage.

To get the most from impatiens and other annuals, proper fertilizing is important. Annuals by nature want to grow and flower all summer long so they have a fairly constant demand for nutrition. Use a water-soluble plant food, such as 20-20-20 at a rate of 15 millilitres per 4.5 litres (1 tablespoon per gallon) of water as a general feed. Frequency depends on temperature, rainfall and sunshine but generally every 2 weeks is adequate.

Not all impatiens are shade lovers. However, there is a family called the New Guinea impatiens that thrives in full sun. These have a unique bicolor foliage that is quite striking, that can provide a nice contrast with sunny annuals in your garden.

Swell Smell

We plant flowers, trees and shrubs for their attractive flowers and foliage, as well as other features. Though we consider their ultimate size and shape, frequently, we overlook another important characteristic - fragrance. From early spring until late autumn, there are several flowers with pleasing fragrance, suitable for your area.

Most fragrant plants are of a permanent nature, so plan locations that allow the wind to carry the scent toward your home or patio. Keep in mind the time you want the fragrance from your garden. If you plant lilies and take your vacation in June and July, the lilies will bloom while you are away.

In early spring, the Canada sweet violet scents the wooded landscape. When flowering bulbs show their colors, the hyacinth and muscari are prominent. There are some fragrant varieties of tulips. Lily of the valley makes an ideal ground cover in shaded areas. Daphne, a narrow-leaved alpine shrub, possesses small florets with strong perfume. Some species of honeysuckle are quite fragrant, including the favorite climbing Hall's honeysuckle. Several cultivars of lilacs are sweet scented. Viburnum, especially carlesii, often called the spice bush, is also extremely fragrant. Many species of Philadelphus (mock orange) feature strong fragrance.

Some trees have scented flowers too, including the small-leaved basswood (Tilia cordata) and the Russian olive (Eleagnus), catalpa and the locust trees.

The butterfly bush (Buddleia) is a popular midsummer flowering shrub with a mild fragrance. Roses have long been known for their pleasing fragrance. Some of the most popular newer varieties are Oklahoma, Eiffel Tower and Papa Meiland. Older favorites are Sutter's Gold, Crimson Glory, Tropicana, Kordes Perfecta, Mirandy, the Doctor and Vogue.

Several lily species have strong scents. Perhaps the Madonna lily is the best known. Some irises and many varieties of peonies are also sweet smelling.

Don't overlook sweet peas as an ideal climbing, honey-scented annual. Annual stocks are excellent. Nicotines are noted for their nocturnal fragrance. Some verbenas cultivars are also quite fragrant.

Most fragrant flowers can be planted in spring or fall when the plants are dormant. Plant perennials in September or in early spring. Most of the nursery stock is planted in early spring or mid autumn after the leaves have fallen.

Sick child, dog & motorcyclists

A sick child, a runaway dog, and busy traffic Monday combined to create a situation which resulted in a collision involving two motorcyclists.

The situation took place on Highway 35 just south of the Scotch Line Road. A family had stopped at the side of the road when one of the children had become car-sick. While they were tending to the child, the family pet slipped out of the vehicle unnoticed. The family left the scene with the dog at the side of the road.

The animal started running along the side of the road and darted into the line of traffic causing a number of cars to apply their brakes sharply.

At the same time, two motorcyclists from Oshawa were travelling south on the highway and had pulled out on a curve to pass. As they returned to their traffic lane the cars ahead were stopping suddenly to avoid the dog.

The motorcyclists, in attempting to come to a stop, momentarily lost control of their vehicles and collided. The impact sent one driver and machine into the guard rails causing $800 damage while the second was able to regain control and drove along the shoulder of the road to avoid hitting the cars. Both drivers suffered leg injuries.

Investigating officer Brian Dunham has charged both drivers with careless driving. Charged are Johan Koeslag, 24, and Dennis Hayward, 22,

Wednesday, May 20, 1981

both of Oshawa.

Immediately following the collision, the unidentified family, realizing their dog was missing, returned to the scene to claim their footloose pet.

Beef barbeque returns

Once again this year Haliburton County residents can enjoy the delicious taste of freshly barbequed beef as the Haliburton County Agricultural Society holds its fifth annual feast. As usual the event is scheduled for the Minden arena with dancing to follow the tasty roast beef supper.

The event has been slated for June 13.

Erosion problem to be studied

Serious erosion problems along the shore of the Gull River just downstream from the Highway 35 bridge will be looked into by Anson, Hindon and Minden Township council and the Ministry of Natural Resources. Steve Barry, owner of property adjacent to the eroding section received that assurance from the council May 13.

Barry had approached the councillors to determine if something could be done to curb the erosion of the high river bank. He told the meeting that the problem seems to have occurred only since the new highway bridge was installed. He said recent brush cutting by Ontario Hydro also contributed to the problem.

He suggested that two layers of Gabion baskets be installed at the base of the hill and that material be added behind the baskets to stabilize the situation.

Barry said he had been in contact with the Ministry of Natural Resources and they expressed concern about the situation. He was told by MNR officials that material washing away from the base of the hill is threatening an important trout spawning location in the river.

The meeting was told that the ministry would be willing to supply close to one-third of the cost of the construction through the use of a Junior Ranger crew this summer. Barry volunteered to provide one third in material for back filling and requested that the township meet the cost of the remaining third, either by securing grants or direct contribution.

Barry noted that the erosion is taking place on the 66 foot shore allowance and is therefore the township's responsibility. However, he pointed out that the erosion, if allowed to continue, poses a serious threat to his home which is located at the top of the bank.

Meals on wheels volunteers feted

The Minden Carnarvon Highlands Senior Service Unit of Meals - on - Wheels hosted a conference at PineStone Inn, Wednesday, May 12th. The purpose was to thank the volunteer workers of Meals - on - Wheels in Haliburton County and to hear experiences of the five area units.

Mr. Ed Pettinger, president of the unit, acted as the master of ceremonies. A film on good nutrition was shown. Doris McCann, chairman of Haliburton Home Services directed a question and answer period on both the film and Meals - on - Wheels affairs. Co-ordinators from each unit gave an account of their experiences and happiness in serving the seniors.

Grace was said by E. Bursay before assembling for the luncheon for ninety-six volunteers.

In the afternoon, Miss Kendra Stamp brought a message from Dr. Lodenquai.

Miss Leslie Hardy, field representative of New Horizons spoke and later held meetings to aid new units. Dr. Heyes spoke on the advantage of seniors being able to remain in their own homes. Meals - on - Wheels and visitations helped to combat loneliness. Mrs. M. Stouffer conducted a happy sing-song. Jack O'dell, one of the required ten directors, thanked Mrs. McCann. Mrs. M. Wallace, Miss Hardy, Mrs. Stouffer and all coordinators and Meals - on - Wheels volunteers for a "good day".

Meals - on - Wheels are served each Monday, Wednesday and Friday. If you know of anyone in ill health or needing assistance please phone Jane Graham 286-2024 or Alberta Maitland, 286-2508 or Haliburton Home Service - 457-2941. Eakins wants mine ministry

"Mr. Speaker, I am glad to see that someone on that side of the House has finally become concerned enough about the recent steady decline in mineral exploration and lack of new mine developments in this province to be compelled to introduce this resolution calling for the re-establishment of a separate Ministry of Mines."

With these words, Victoria-Haliburton MPP John Eakins joined with Conservative MPP Ed Havrot in urging the government to pay more attention to the mining industry in Ontario.

Eakins, in backing the resolution noted that the mining activity in the province has declined in the past few years while other provinces have registered an increase. He blamed the Ministry of Natural Resources policies, the portfolio under which the mining activity now falls, for the decline. "We believe that the present Ministry of Natural Resources has failed to meet the needs of not only the mining industry but other areas under its jurisdiction as well," Eakins told the Legislature May 14.

The Liberal MPP was recently appointed MNR critic for his party. Repeating the charges of Havrot, Eakins said the mining industry had not received the attention it deserves from MNR.

He pointed out that not only are established mines closing and fewer new mines being opened, but that exploration and staking of claims is also down. This he said points to a bleak future for the mining industry in Ontario.

Eakins laid out a seven point plan which he claimed would help re-establish Ontario as the largest mineral producer in Canada. Among the points was a reduction of the resource taxation levied by federal and provincial governments, changing Securities Commission regulations to encourage junior mining companies, increased geophysical surveys by the provinces, increased process of extracted minerals in the province, establishment of a mining machinery industry in northern Ontario, changes in legislation which would make it easier for smaller mining companies to begin operations on a staked claim and government assistance in encouraging certain mining ventures during the early stages.

Eakins told the Legislature that he hoped the government would move to act on the resolution, "...and give mining in Ontario the profile and priority it needs."

HALIBURTON COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION

FINANCIAL STATEMENT

DECEMBER 31, 1980

TO THE HALIBURTON COUNTY BOARD OF EDUCATION

We have examined the Balance Sheet of the Haliburton County Board of Education as at December 31, 1980, the Revenue Fund statement of Operations and the Capital Fund Statement of Operations for the year then ended. Our examination included a general review of the accounting procedures and such tests of accounting records and other supporting evidence as we considered necessary in the circumstances.

In our opinion these Financial Statements present fairly the financial position of the board as at December 31, 1980 and the results of its operations for the year then ended, in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted for Ontario school boards applied on a basis consistent with that of the preceding year.

The week of activities began at Hyland Crest with our regular fun and fitness session. Everyone had fun while exercising to music. It's nice to see our new residents participating. Monday afternoon the ladies gathered in the craft room to work on their projects. We're very proud of the lovely bazaar items our ladies are producing.

Tuesday morning, it was a pleasure to welcome Rev. John Burgess to our chapel. Rev. Burgess brought John Lambshed, who is a student in the ministry with him. Mr. Lamb-shed brought forth a beautiful message which was enjoyed very much by all who attended the service.

Later in the afternoon all our bingo fans gathered in the main lounge for a game.

Bill Payne and Eldon Deacon entertained later in the evening for music night. As usual everyone had a few laughs and enjoyed their music.

Games night was a big success again this week. Our auxiliary members were here to assist the residents and join in games of euchre, cribbage and crokinole.

This week's movies were very good. Voyage of the Hummingbird was filmed in Trinidad and Tobago. We went on a tour of the Caribbean islands on board the Hummingbird. Thousands of tourists visit the beautiful beaches and are entertained by the native people. The Carnival of Colour was the highlight of the picture showing us the beautiful costumes and the magic of the isles.

Travelling Again was a story about a family in the Rocky Mountains. The scenery in this film was breathtaking as they travelled to popular camping spots throughout Canada. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed both films.

Thursday afternoon the ladies of the Full Gospel Lighthouse, Haliburton brought a delicious lunch for the tea party. They served a lovely assortment of cookies and squares. Mrs. Kurtz entertained everyone with her piano music after the lunch was served. We would like to thank all the ladies for a very enjoyable afternoon.

Friday afternoon, we went for a short bus trip to Big Hawk Lake. We visited the log chute which has been restored. It is quite an attraction and it was interesting to learn its history from some of our residents. We continued on to Big Hawk Marina where we treated ourselves to an ice cream bar.

Special thanks to Isabella Harrison, May Spence and Florence Robb for volunteering their help on the bus.

We would like to welcome Mrs. Madeline Trepanier to Hyland Crest. We sincerely hope she will enjoy her new home here.

Farm spouses can receive wages

The concept of spousal partnerships for farmers was officially recognized a number of years ago. Whether or not a spousal partnership exists now, or whether one should be set up, depends on individual farm situations.

The concept of paying wages to your spouse was introduced in the federal budget in April of 1980, but was not passed until 1981. However, it was made retroactive to January 1, 1980. A few farmers made use of this for 1980 by paying wages during the year. A number of farmers this year are wondering what needs to be done in order to pay wages to a spouse.

The salary paid to your spouse should be similar to what you would pay a stranger for the same hours of work and the same job being done.

Payment of wages should be made by cheque from the farm account to the spouse, who should then deposit it into a personal account. Income Tax and Canada Pension contributions should be withheld from the salary cheque and sent to Ottawa each month. If you do not already have one, you must obtain an employer number through the Revenue Canada Office in Belleville, phone Zenith 0-4000.

They can also provide the tables for Income Tax and Canada Pension Plan deductions. Unemployment Insurance Premiums need not be deducted and Workmen's Compensation is optional, similar to the farm owner.

At the end of the taxation year, a T4 slip would be prepared and the salary will be shown on the spouse's personal tax return.

I will not go into specific advantages and disadvantages of paying spousal wages versus a spousal partnership, however, if you have been considering one of these options, and would like to discuss it further, give us a call.

Retiring lawyer honoured

A surprise dinner and get-together was held Wednesday, May 13th, at the Wig-A-Mog Inn, Haliburton, in honour of J. Earl Palmer, Q.C., who has recently retired from the practice of law in the Minden area and will now be spending most of his time at his home in Toronto.

Guests at the dinner included local lawyers and related business people, as well as friends of Earl and his wife, Marilyn. Out-of-town guests included Judge Lloyd Woods, from Lindsay; Ted Gardiner, formerly of Haliburton, but now practising law in Lindsay; O. Gregory Anderson, Q.C., from Bancroft; and Janet Heath, former long-time secretary to Earl. Brian F. Adamson, Mr. Palmer's successor in the practice, was also present.

After a presentation, Mr. Palmer, spoke on how happy he and his wife Marilyn had always been in the Minden area, and that he would be retaining a few ties here and would be back on visits.

Tourney marks season end

The Minden Racquet Club held a very enjoyable mixed round robin tournament over the past 3 Mondays, April 27, May 4, May 11. Fifteen couples participated.

The winners were: Bruna Foran & Dave Dollo; Jackie Zorjen & John Lonsdale.

The low prize was taken by Sue Danilko & Rick Danilko.

Players were handicapped so that novices and seasoned players were more evenly matched.

This marks the beginning of an annual event to bring the adult badminton season to a close.

Office now open at noon

The Anson, Hindon and Minden Township office will now be open during the noon hour.

Previously the municipal office was closed from 12 to 1 p.m. each day. According to Councillor Ed Pergolas, speaking at the May 13 meeting, the noontime closing has resulted in a number of complaints from residents wishing to pay taxes, water or sewer bills or to make inquiries.

The hours of the staff will now be re-arranged so the office remains open during the lunch period.

Will sell sand

The municipal council of Anson, Hindon and Minden has agreed to sell sand from the township gravel pit at 30¢ per cubic yard. The price was reached at the May 13 meeting of the council.

The council agreed to the price after requests were received from Councillor Lyle McKnight and Sinclair Nesbitt to purchase the material.

Last year the sand sold for 25¢ for a cubic yard. The council agreed that the new price would be in effect for 1981 only.

Large crowd for hockey banquet

The Community Centre was close to capacity Thursday evening as coaches, parents and friends paid tribute to the players of the Minden Minor Hockey League. The annual supper marked the last official function of the 1980-81 season.

Guest speaker for the evening was Haliburton Highlands Secondary School physical education teacher Gary Brohman. He challenged the players, coaches and parents to approach the game of hockey with a positive attitude.

He told the audience that a recently established program which encourages players to improve their skills has proven to be very successful. Using stick-on seals attached to a certificate, each player is graded on how he has improved during the season in a number of hockey skills area. "The players are competing against themselves," Brohman pointed out. "They are being challenged to improve their own skills and are not judged in relation to the more skilled players on the team."

Brohman noted that this method ensured each player receives recognition for his improvements during the season and gives him something to take home at the end of the year. "The certificate with the seals attached is a reward for the efforts they have made during the year," he commented.

He said the coaches and parents should use sport participation by the players to develop the children's self-image, and desire to participate.

Following the speech a draw was made for two weeks of hockey instruction at the Haliburton Hockey Haven. The winner was Dave Dollo.

Trophies and awards were presented to various teams following which the election of officers for 1981-82 was held.

Returned as president of the association was Mervin Barry. Other members of the executive include: Tom Russell, vice president; Shirley Howe, secretary-treasurer; and directors Dwight Thomas, Bob Ackersblade, Stephanie Wells, Shirley Hie, Carl Hie and Cheryl Russell.

June 3 is Census Day, and it's a day that really counts for Canada.

A census representative carrying identification will shortly deliver a questionnaire to your home.

It's vital to count yourself in. Census information, gathered every five years, helps us understand our changing country so we can make plans for tomorrow. In fact, our national census is so important that, by law, every householder must participate.

It's between you and us. The information you supply is seen only by census employees. No other person, government department, or organization, has access to it.

It's not difficult. Just take a few minutes to fill in your questionnaire. If a postage-paid, pre-addressed envelope was delivered with your census package, drop the completed questionnaire in the mail. If there was no envelope included, your questionnaire will be picked up.

It's your future. Remember, the census helps us paint Canada's future. And we need your help to make the picture perfect.

There are no friends like old friends Who have shared our working days Now we will have but memories, In the parting of our ways...

We have often noticed that fishermen keep their fish-hooks in their hats, but have heard that a good place for these is an empty paper match holder.

The season is really late now, but perhaps warmer weather is heading our way, with the change of the moon. Wonder how many people in our area consult their Almanac before planting? Traffic is heavy so take care. Cheerio until next time.

Martin Lumber purchases company

G.W. Martin Lumber Limited of Harcourt, Ontario announced last week that its subsidiary company G.W. Martin Veneer Limited, has negotiated an agreement to purchase the Ontario Forest Products Division of U.O.P. Incorporated, an American based company of Des Plaines, Illinois.

The Forest Products Division, formerly Staniforth Lumber Company, operates one of the newest and most modern rotary veneer mills in North America at Rutherglen, Ontario, near North Bay. This mill produces oak, ash, birch, maple and hickory veneers for shipment to world wide customers.

This acquisition, other than Rutherglen, also includes plants in Ontario at Mattawa, North Bay, Kiosk and Sault Ste. Marie.

At Mattawa, a dry kiln, planer and complete sorting and grading yard for lumber is maintained and is supplied by lumber from the sawmill at Deux Rivieres, Quebec.

At Kiosk, all forestry operations are headquartered here for logging operations in the northern portion of Algonquin Park.

At North Bay, along with the general head office, is a 60,000 sq. ft. warehouse and splicing plant for veneer, as well as a cut-to-size operation for veneer.

At Sault Ste. Marie, a complete logging division is maintained to harvest logs and veneer from their timber limits in that area.

Wednesday, May 20, 1981

The Martin companies own and operate sawmills in Harcourt, Eganville and Mattawa, Ontario.

Along with these mills, the company also owns and operates:

- A wood products company at Tweed, Ontario, a manufacturer of high quality hardwood pallets for the brewery, liquor and food industries.

- A veneer company at Tweed, Ontario, manufacturer of rotary veneer.

- A wood treating plant at Kirkland Lake, Ontario has creosoting and pressure treating facilities for railway ties, poles, etc.

The Martin organization anticipates that all levels of production at all plants will be maintained and, in some areas, expanded.

Painters featured on new issue

Three Canadian painters will be featured on a new issue of stamps to go on sale this Friday. The three are Paul-Emile Borduas, Frederick H. Varley, and Marc-Aurele Fortin.

The painters we are honouring on these stamps have captured the essence of Canadian character in both its landscapes and its people. They are the custodians of our heritage, and our culture has been enriched by their legacy," commented Mr. Ouellet, Canada's Postmaster

General, in making the announcement.

Paul-Emile Borduas was born in 1905 in St.-Hilaire, Quebec, and studied under the well-known artist, Oziar Leduc. Borduas was attracted to abstract art. After the German invasion there was an influx to Montreal of artists fleeing France. These individuals popularized the abstract style of painting in Quebec. It was then that Borduas attempted his first abstract works and with a number of like-minded young followers formed a group called "Les Automatistes." They mounted several exhibitions and in 1948 published a manifesto entitled Refus global. This inflammatory tract caused the provincial government to fire Borduas from his teaching post. He later left Canada and died in Paris in 1960. The 35-cent stamp features Borduas' painting Untitled No. 6. The work is in the Musee d'Art contemporain in Montreal.

Frederick H. Varley was born in England in 1881, immigrated to Canada in 1912, and became a founding member of the Group of Seven in 1920. Although his landscapes received particular acclaim, he preferred painting people. Varley died in 1969. The 17-cent stamp features a self-portrait in oils, painted in 1945. This portrait is a part of the Hart House Collection of Canadian painting and is on loan to the Art Gallery of Ontario in Toronto.

Marc-Aurele Fortin was born in Ste-Rose, Quebec, in 1888. He studied art in Montreal and later abroad. Upon his return he specialized in watercolour landscapes of the St. Lawrence Valley. He died in 1970. The 17-cent stamp shows a landscape painted by Fortin in 1937, titled A la Baie St-Paul. The painting is in the collection of the Musee du Quebec, which is located in Quebec City.

$2000 damage

Damage was estimated at $2000 when a car driven by Bradley Gulston, 22, of Toronto rolled over Saturday morning on County Road 4. According to police, the man lost control of the 1974 model Mercury prior to the accident. Gulston was uninjured in the incident.

Investigating officer was Constable Boyd Jarvis.

Another roll

A similar single vehicle accident occurred May 15 at 11 p.m. on Highway 530 east of West Guilford.

The 1974 model Ford pick-up truck was being driven by Maryvonne Baranyi, 25, of Eagle Lake when it left the road. Damage was estimated by police at $1200.

The driver was taken to

Red Cross Hospital in Haliburton.

Constable Boyd Jarvis investigated the incident.

Two car accident

A charge of careless driving and driving while his licence is under suspension has been laid against a Glamorgan Township man. The charges were laid following an accident May 15 on Highway 503 east of Gooderham.

According to police, a 1974 model pick-up truck driven by William Scott of Michigan, sustained $300 damage when it was struck in the rear by a car driven by Richard D. Mathieu, 20, of Glamorgan Township. The Mathieu car sustained $1000 damage.

The incident was investigated by Constable Bob Wood.
